Iconic Object - The Akrokeramo

An ode to the soul of the city

Every MGallery Collection hotel features its own Iconic Object, which acts as a tribute to the city which it's based in and holds a special significance as part of the discovery aspect of each visit.

For Athens Capital Hotel - MGallery Collection, the Akrokeramo imbues the symbolism and aesthetic allure which describe the true beauty of Athenian architecture and the character of its people.

A distinct accent to the neoclassical houses of Athens, this ceramic figurehead is completely unique, just as our hotel and its guests, making it the ideal Iconic Object! This is why it represents our core values with its intricate design.

With its two spires, the shape of a circle and dynamic movement of a wheel combine to symbolise time, change and continuity, whereas its Anthemion or Palmette acts as shows of true hospitality.

Memorable Moment - The Komboloi

An “Old Athens” reminder

In all hotels of the MGallery Collection, the Memorable Moment embodies an entire experience, which includes the discovery of a very special part of the city.

The Komboloi tells a tale which will bring our guests closer to Athens and to the hotel by drawing them out to explore a symbolic part of Greek culture, leading them to forge a personal relationship with Athens as a part of their stay at Athens Capital Hotel - MGallery Collection.

Our Memorable Moment, the authentic Komboloi, will be significant to our guests both for how it was made and what it has come to represent. Over the years, it has added its distinctive melody of stones clicking against each other to the lives of Greek men everywhere, with poignant monastic origins; guests will be invited to make special memories through crafting one of their very own at the traditional Kombologadiko, discreetly niched within Athens.

A true hub of culture - Mappemonde

George Lappas, 1988

As part of the MGallery Hotel Collection, Athens Capital Hotel - MGallery Collection strives to be a cradle of art in all its expressions, offering guests the opportunity to immerse themselves in an aesthetic universe that has been curated with care. The timeless wisdom of our city is relayed through magnificent displays at the atrium area of each of the hotel's 10 levels.

Mappemonde is an art installation created by George Lappas in 1988 that includes 3,000 powerful symbolic pieces creating a personal journey which goes beyond time and space and unites in different forms the daily life itself, along with feelings and memories caged in a "home" where everything meets.

Its most impressive element that draws international guests and Athenians alike to the rooftop of the hotel, to experience something truly remarkable.

The Athenian experience

Acropolis Museum

The ancient history of this cradle of Western civilisation is relayed exquisitely at the Acropolis Museum, which is graced with some of antiquity's most enchanting marble sculptures, as well as a plethora of relics from the brilliant past of Athens. Visiting the Parthenon is a life's dream for many and can be an emotional experience; this is where modern democracy was born many millennia ago.

Stavros Niarchos Foundation

The Stavros Niarchos Foundation is a brilliant cultural centre on the city's coast, which houses the National Opera and National Library, as well as countless of exhibitions and activities that appeal to every taste and preference. Being presents at some of its events and performances will colour any visit to Athens, along with a refreshing walk through its lovely Mediterranean gardens.

B&E Goulandris Foundation

Housed in the buzzing centre of the city, the Basil & Elise Goulandris Foundation opened in 1919 and is a contemporary haven of international art in all its forms. Its permanent collection holds a timeless intrigue, with pieces by visionaries who influenced the worldwide art scene with their works; here, visitors can peruse the creations of Vincent van Gogh, Claude Monet, Pablo Picasso and Edgar Degas.
